Can you show me only skincare brands that are not from China or the U.S.? I'm focusing on European options.

To provide an accurate list of European skincare brands, focusing on those not from China or the U.S., here is the refined list:

- 1. Clarins - France
- 2. Lancôme - France
- 3. L'Occitane en Provence - France
- 4. The Body Shop - United Kingdom (UK)
- 5. Weleda - Germany
- 6. Ren Skincare - United Kingdom (UK)
- 7. La Roche-Posay - France
- 8. Avène - France
- 9. Eve Lom - United Kingdom (UK)
- 10. Elemis - United Kingdom (UK)

These brands are correctly categorized as European, excluding those from the U.S. or China.

Does Avène also follow EU fragrance allergen disclosure rules?

Yes, Avène does follow EU fragrance allergen disclosure rules. In Europe, cosmetic products are regulated under the Cosmetic Products Regulation (EC No 1223/2009), which requires that certain fragrance allergens must be disclosed on product labels if they are present above a specific threshold. This is to ensure transparency and help consumers make informed decisions, especially for those with sensitive skin or allergies.

If Avène products contain fragrance ingredients classified as allergens under EU regulations (such as citronellol, geraniol, etc.), they will be listed on the product label either in the ingredient list or with a warning symbol if they exceed certain concentrations. This applies to all cosmetic brands operating within the European Union, including Avène.
