I love Asian brands that use traditional ingredients like ginseng. Can you recommend a cruelty-free one?

Based on your preferences, Beauty of Joseon is an excellent cruelty-free brand that incorporates traditional Korean ingredients like ginseng into its products. This brand aligns perfectly with your interest in Asian brands using traditional ingredients while also meeting your requirement for being animal-testing free.

Here are some specific product recommendations from Beauty of Joseon:

- Ginseng Essence Water: A concentrated hydrating essence infused with 80% ginseng extract, ideal for hydration and skin protection.
- Ginseng Cleansing Oil: A deep cleansing oil formulated with soya oil to gently remove impurities, sebum, and makeup residue while smoothing the skin.
- Ginseng Moist Sun Serum SPF 50+: A rejuvenating and protective serum that provides high UV protection while hydrating and brightening the skin.

All of these products are vegan, free from animal testing, and inspired by traditional Korean herbal medicine. Let me know if you'd like more details!

Do they offer toners or serums with ginseng?

Yes, Beauty of Joseon offers several products containing ginseng, including toners and serums:

- Ginseng Essence Water: A concentrated hydrating essence that contains 80% ginseng infusion and extracts, providing deep hydration and intensive nourishment.
- Revive Serum Ginseng + Snail Mucin: An intensive regenerating serum that combines ginseng root water with snail mucin to restore vitality, hydrate the skin, and assist in regeneration.

While they don't explicitly mention a "toner," the Ginseng Essence Water serves a similar purpose as a hydrating step in your skincare routine. All these products are cruelty-free and align with your preferences.

What does ginseng do for the skin?

Ginseng is highly beneficial for the skin, offering a range of positive effects:

- Hydration: Ginseng deeply hydrates the skin, helping to lock in moisture and keep it nourished over time.
- Sebum Regulation: It helps regulate sebum production, maintaining a healthy balance between hydration and oiliness.
- Protection: Ginseng protects the skin against external environmental factors, enhancing its resilience.
- Regeneration and Rejuvenation: By promoting regeneration, ginseng aids in repairing damaged skin and restoring vitality. It also has rejuvenating effects that can improve the skin's texture and appearance.
- Texture Improvement: The use of ginseng extract can lead to smoother, brighter skin with even pigmentation, enhancing overall skin tone.
- Anti-Aging Properties: Ginseng contains saponins, which not only hydrate deeply but also contribute to anti-aging effects by supporting elasticity and reducing signs of premature aging.
- Traditional Value: Long-valued in Korean skincare for its holistic benefits, ginseng is integral in providing comprehensive skin care that addresses multiple concerns simultaneously.

In summary, ginseng enhances hydration, regulates oil production, protects against environmental stressors, aids in regeneration, improves skin texture, and supports anti-aging efforts, making it a valuable ingredient in skincare products.
